The Allies' Answer to German Piracy

The establishment of a virtual blockade of hostile countries is Great Britain's reply to Germany's attack on merchant ships as announced officially on Monday by Premier Asquith in a momentous speech in the House of Commons. The plan of the allied governments for the regulation of shipping from and to ports of neutral nations, contemplates the prevention of commodities of every kind reaching or leaving those ports, without, however, involving risks to neutral vessels or their crews. The Allies will hold themselves at liberty to capture goods presumed to have been ordered by hostile countries and deemed to be destined for them. They have no intention, however, of confiscating ships or cargoes which are detained, unless they are liable to confiscation under normal conditions of war.

Set Up a Home for Two

The Advertiser has just learned the particulars of a quiet wedding which took place at Calgary on Feb. 10th, in which one of our business men, John G. Rees, who conducts a woodworking business on Fourth Ave., Claresholm, was united in marriage to Miss Annie Lewis, also of this town. Both are Welsh folk and in their childhood days made their homes in Carmarthen, in the south of Wales. The couple were married at the Methodist parsonage in Calgary, Rev. F. A. Lewis, of the Central Methodist Church, officiating at the ceremony. After a short honeymoon, they spent in Calgary, where both now reside. Mr. and Mrs. Rees took up residence in Claresholm, T. D. Lewis, a well-to-do farmer of this district, is an uncle of Mr. Rees and the bride has two brothers in this country, Roderick, who recently enlisted from Claresholm in the 13th C. M. R. and is in training with the squadron at Macleod and Henry. The Advertiser wishes with the friends of the young couple in congratulation.

Ready for Millinery Opening

Mrs. R. M. Larkin has just returned from Calgary, after spending the past two weeks in the wholesale millinery workrooms. While away Mrs. Larkin engaged Miss Clark, who will be her assistant for the spring season. Miss Clark has had 15 years experience in millinery work and at the beginning of last season came to Calgary, highly recommended from one of the largest millinery establishments in Chicago. Mrs. Larkin promises the ladies of Claresholm the very newest and latest creations of the millinery art this season and kindly urges them to see her before going elsewhere. Opening dates will be announced later.—adv.

From Letters from Our Boys

Armed to Teeth, Awaits His Chance

In a letter which was received recently from E. T. Gray, dated February 5th, he says, "I think that another week will see us out of here, at least that is what we have been told. We are going into the county of Sussex for a few weeks' training, before going to France. Of course, these orders are liable to be changed but that is the latest. . . . We have been clipping our horses this last week or so and are also getting our swords sharpened and generally preparing for some kind of a move, so I think we are getting down to business. Anyway, I hope so. I did not volunteer to stick here in England all this time, although I am liable to see quite enough of France and Germany before I am through. . . . I saw Sam Bryan and Dad yesterday. We were all over to Lark Hill being reviewed by King George. They were lined up on the left. Sam and I sat on our horses about 100 yards apart during the review. Sammy is armed to the teeth and so is Dad. Besides having a sword and rifle like us, they have a bayonet and side gun. Sam was speaking of the Rev. McNeil to me and I wish you would remember him to my old skip." The above extract is from a letter to A. E. McAllister.

Beat Germans for Old Land's Sake

A. F. Boniface is in receipt of a letter from Jas. Cummings, written from V.A.D. Home Hospital, Nantwich, to which he had been sent for a few weeks to recover his strength. In the course of the letter he speaks of the many contributions shown to the wounded soldiers by the citizens of Brighton. "We are simply overwhelmed with everything in the line of fruit and smoking material, besides being taken out for trips around Brighton and Hove in motor cars, finishing up with tea at some lady's home. Everyone has enlisted, even to the business men in town that are too old to go to the front. They have formed what is known as a 'National Guard.' I shall never forget my stay at Brighton as long as I live. I was there only two weeks when a few of us had to go to a convalescent home at Withlyham to make room for more serious cases that were coming in. I have only just got better after being in two places and I have been here a couple of weeks to get back my strength. I lost a good deal of blood which has left me very weak but I am getting on nicely now and I guess will be fit again in another week or so, when I suppose will be sent out to France again. Some one has to go or it would be pretty bad for the old country." It is a case now of beating the Germans, or to go down forever for us British. But I am sure we shall win in the end."

Was on torpedoed cruiser Hawke

Mr. Boniface is also in receipt of a letter from Alf Chamberlain, who it will be remembered, was in the employ of M. Fisher, and while in this town rigged up a wireless outfit and learned, in his spare moments, the code and sending so that after a few weeks' schooling in England he was appointed wireless operator on the H.M.S. "Hawke." In part he says, "Since I left the 'Vernon' at Portsmouth I have had a fine time. I served as wireless operator on the cruiser 'Villaret,' (we captured the first ship for England) and I am not sure whether to tell you that I was on the cruiser 'Hawke' and I had only left her a few days when she was sunk by a German submarine. Rather a narrow shave for me, wasn't it?"

He gives as a short address from which letters will be forwarded: Alf Chamberlain, Wireless Operator, 1 Brunswick Rd, Worthing, Sussex, England. Jas. Cummings should be addressed: 3947, Pte. J. Cummings; 2nd Lancashire Fusilers, 1st Exp. Force, Bury, Lancashire, Eng.

M. Mecklenburg, A. M., the eye-specialist, will be at the Queen's Hotel, Claresholm, on Monday, March 22nd. His 20 years of successful experience are at your service.
